

General

When I try to start the Masternode alias via wallet interface, it says "could not allocate txid", what should I do?

If you receive this error when you think you already completed all previous steps, open the local wallet debug console and use the following command to start your MN manually:

```
masternode start-alias "your MN name"
```

If above solution does not help you, check previous steps in MN guide starting by checking if masternode outputs command gives you a result in debug window where the result should match with the details in "masternode.conf" file.

Unique solution ID: #1018

Author: ColossusXT

Last update: 2018-08-01 10:55